

R.A.F. and Americans Pound Berlin Selective Service Starts Drive for Younger Men

Those over 26 To Be Deferred For the Present

Hershey Announces Induction Speedup

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—Selective service tonight intensified its drive for able-bodied young men in a series of sharp new instructions to draft boards, while government agencies agreed on a plan to speed a few "indispensable" youths for vital war industry.

Announced directly at faster induction of men 25 and younger for military service, the orders from Major General Lewis B. Hershey, chief director, will leave registrants and over untouched until the younger men have been cleaned up.

Short Notice Planned
Hershey's action came quickly after Chairman Paul W. McNutt of the War Relocation Authority announced that a new committee headed by himself would "ration" exemptions among the chosen key industries and gave other agencies three days to submit figures on the number of men proposed by them for deferment.

The Hershey orders provided "in-line" machinery to prevent the drafting of essential young men and McNutt's machinery is functioning, and in addition told the local boards:

To pay no heed to the expiration date of present deferments of men under 26, but to proceed with the review of their deferments and classify them as 1-A or otherwise as rapidly as the review is carried out.

Older Men Exempt
To let men 26 and older stay under present classifications until the boards have gone through the list of all men under 26 in class 1-A as well as those deferred in industry and agriculture.

To order up for pre-induction physical examination all men under 26 who hold occupational deferments and who have not been physically examined within the last 180 days.

To use their discretion in reclassifying as 2-A or 2-B (occupational deferments) those men under 26 who are fit only for limited military service, if such registrants are contributing to "war production or supporting activities."

The last instruction, which is expected to diminish the number of 4-F classifications handed out, will meet the complaints of many industries who argue that as fast as their "essential" men obtain 4-F classification, they leave the war industry and hunt up better-paid jobs of other kinds which are open to them because of their draft-exempt status.

Under the new action, a draft board may make such a worker 2-A or 2-B which will make him subject to WMC regulations restricting job transfers.

Auto Workers May Buy Ford Home

DETROIT, March 24 (AP)—An activity of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) union may be housed soon in a former Ford family home. Union officials disclosed today they were negotiating for use of the Jefferson avenue, river-front estate once occupied by the family of the late Edsel B. Ford, son of Henry Ford.

The union would move its medical institute into the old mansion, where the Prince of Wales once visited. The Ford estate still owns the home. For several years it has been occupied by the Detroit Foundation Music School.

Japanese Invasion of India Seen As More Political Than Military

CHUNGKING, March 24 (AP)—Mr. Gen. C. C. Tseng, spokesman for the Chinese army, said today the Japanese penetration of the Indian state of Manipur near the Burma border was more political than military but cautioned that "the situation should not be believed."

Tseng said the Japanese strength was limited but the fighting might assume greater importance if the Japanese were able to bring up reinforcements. He admitted the invasion of India was "a disturbing factor."

Although other official quarters remained silent on the Indian situation, the Japanese penetration into Manipur created a shock here which was regarded as supplying Japanese propaganda guns with the ammunition they have had in the last few months.

Asylum for Refugees:

Haven for Hundreds of Thousands Of Jews Strongly Urged by F.D.R.

(By The Associated Press)
Washington was the scene yesterday of these rapid-fire developments in the field of foreign affairs:

1. President Roosevelt appealed to Germans and other peoples of Europe and Asia to shield and grant asylum to refugees from Axis executioners.

2. Secretary of State Hull conferred with Republican congressmen seeking specific data on United States foreign policy. Rep. Clare Boothe Luce (Conn.) said afterward "silence is still the State department's settled policy," while others described the conference as helpful.

3. Hull urged Hungary, first Axis satellite to feel the "Nazi whip" to fight the forces of occupation.

4. President Roosevelt renewed the United States pledge to free the Philippines.

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—

President Roosevelt, saying hundreds of thousands of Jews face death as a result of Hitler's grasp of the Balkans, called on the peoples of those countries and the Germans themselves today to hide intended victims from the Nazi executioners.

The chief executive also asked in a statement that "the free peoples of Europe and Asia temporarily open their frontiers to all victims of oppression."

Senate Curtails TVA Authority

Hits New Dealers After Hot Battle

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—The Senate voted, 39 to 26, today to strip the Tennessee Valley Authority of its revolving fund after a fiery session in which Vice President Wallace was criticized angrily from the floor for his parliamentary rulings.

The action incorporated into the $8,577,533,978 independent offices appropriations bill an administrative amendment limiting expenditures of the public power agency to funds voted by Congress, instead of allowing it to use its power and fertilizer receipts to finance operations.

The House yet has to act on the proposal. Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.), its chief sponsor, denounced as "damnable" Wallace's statement that "parliamentary trickery" had been employed prior to a 46 to 17 vote forcing Wallace to submit to the Senate the question as to whether the amendment was properly offered.

Subsequently, by voice vote, the Senate held the proposal was properly offered. Sen. Clark (D-Mo.) declared Wallace's refusal to submit the question to the Senate automatically involved the question "whether the vice president can openly, flagrantly and brazenly disregard the rules of the Senate in ruling that the amendment is not germane."

Germans Occupy Strategic Island

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP)—The British radio said tonight that according to reliable reports reaching London German troops have landed on the Aaland Islands in the Baltic sea midway between Finland and Sweden.

"Hitherto Finland has permitted no foreign troops on the islands," said the broadcast which was recorded by CBS.

The London radio said the islands are of "great strategic importance since they control the gulf of Bothnia and the sea approaches to Stockholm."

Generally it was felt that the situation could have been avoided if the Allies had followed different strategy. The newspaper Ta Kung Pao declared that if a second front had been opened and everywhere in the Far East and Pacific powerful aggressive blows were being struck at the Japanese "there would be no time for Tojo to take any interest in India."

The newspaper exhorted the Allies to accelerate the drive on Rome; to open the second front as soon as possible; to strengthen their attacks in the Pacific; to enlarge the scale of their operations in Burma, and to attack Singapore from the sea.

The China Times also urged the Allies to intensify their operations in Burma and revived the recurrent clamor here for opening a land route to China.

Although other official quarters remained silent on the Indian situation, the Japanese penetration into Manipur created a shock here which was regarded as supplying Japanese propaganda guns with the ammunition they have had in the last few months.

Germans Throw Fresh Men into Cassino Battle

Terrific Bombing Of Little Value

By EDWARD KENNEDY

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NAPLES, March 24 (AP)—The Germans have thrown powerful new artillery and aerial support into their defense of Cassino, their ground troops are resisting as desperately as ever in the ruins of the mountain-locked stronghold, and it becomes plain that last week's terrific air assault did little to help Allied forces break through into the Roman valleys.

Enemy artillery fire from north of the town has mounted steadily in recent days, and between forty and fifty Nazi planes swept low yesterday to shoot up Allied traffic on highway six behind the lines.

New Zealand troops worried forward in the ruins at the southern edge of Cassino and an Allied spokesman reported they made "some little progress." German parachute troops clung to wreckage of the Continental and Des Roses hotels and other buildings.

Allied chances of breaking through into the Liri valley appeared as remote as at any time since the start of the struggle over two months ago. The Allies, though, have learned many lessons at Cassino which may prove of value in the forthcoming invasion of Western Europe.

One is that air attacks, though effective against cities and industrial establishments in the rear, are of little value against fortifications manned by determined soldiers. Above all, it has shown that the walls of Hitler's Europe still are strong and intact and that the German army still is capable of a most desperate defense.

Allied heavy bombers attacked railroad targets at Padua, west of Venice, again last night following a daylight raid by American medium bombers over the Campo Di Marie freight yards in the Florence area. No Allied planes were lost.

20,000 Germans Killed by Reds

Four-Day Drive Nets Big Gains

By TOM YARBROUGH

LONDON, March 24 (AP)—Russia's first Ukrainian army in a 62-mile flanking smash has killed 20,000 Germans and broken through to the Dniester river at the gateway to the Balkans five miles from the former Rumanian province of Bucovina, Moscow announced tonight, threatening to trap thousands of battered German forces to the east.

A four-day avalanche of Red army power unleashed by Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov south of by-passed Tarnopol engulfed 400 towns and villages and reached the river at Zaleschiki, in the southeastern tip of Old Poland just twenty-six miles north of Czeronow, big Rumanian rail hub controlling lines into Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Southern Rumania.

The killing of 20,000 Germans, along with the capture of 3,500 more, was announced in the Soviet daily communiqué.

Premier-Marshall Stalin announced the break-through to the Dniester at Zaleschiki, and also the capture of the "operationally important" rail junction of Chortkov, twenty-two miles to the north, and Gusevsk station seventeen miles east of Chortkov. An order of the day, recorded by the Soviet monitor, recorded the gains.

The daily communiqué later announced that Soviet troops striking northwest of besieged Tarnopol had crossed the Sereth river and cut the railway to Lwow at a point only sixty miles from that big Axis communications city in Southern Poland.

That stroke snapped the principal German feeder route into Tarnopol, made the capture of Tarnopol an early possibility, and further opened the way for three-way drive on Lwow.

The Employment committee, set up to prevent discrimination in war jobs, first was excluded from the money ban when Republicans teamed with Northern and Western Democrats in support of a plea by Senator Buck (R-Ind.) who said "the colored folk feel deeply interested."

But, after Senator George (D-Ga.) had charged that by this exception, Republicans had forfeited all rights to complain against bureaucracy, the senators about faced and killed Buck's amendment on a 33 to 26 vote. They had approved it previously, 37 to 21.

11 More Jap Ships Sunk by Subs

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—Strong evidence of the growing power of the American submarine fleet in Japanese waters came today from the Navy department in an announcement that eleven more enemy vessels have been sunk.

Only three days ago Secretary of the Navy Knox told of fifteen other Nipponese craft going to the bottom after attacks by American submarines.

Coupled with the growing efficiency and size of the United States submarine fleet however have been increased losses of American undersea craft but these are more than offset by the continual ripping of enemy supply lines.

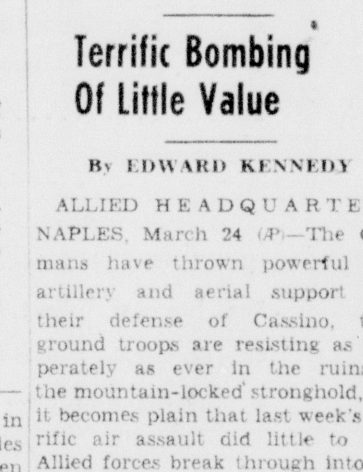

Labor Groups Score War Department

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—The AFL and CIO accused the War department today of "evasions and half-truths" in its statement on the labor organizations' representations concerning strike news and other labor news sent to troops abroad.

"The American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations strongly resent the implication in the War department statement that labor asked the army to 'police all American publications or to withhold from soldiers publications which they want to read,' a joint CIO-AFL statement said.

"No such request was made, directly or indirectly. On the contrary we ask only that servicemen be kept more fully and accurately informed than at present."

Arizona Democrats Wonder Who's Running

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 24 (AP)—Joseph H. Morgan, chairman of the democratic state committee, expressed tonight the belief an untried Arizona delegation would be chosen tomorrow to go to the party's national convention July 19 in Chicago.

"The reason is we don't know who is running," Morgan declared, adding: "If Roosevelt decides to run, the majority of the delegates in my opinion will support him."

Churchill Gives Yanks Pep Talk

By PUGH MOORE

LONDON, March 24 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill on his first inspection of an all-American force in Britain watched hundreds of parachutists in a mass leap at a United States air-borne base yesterday, clambered about a glider, discovered a jeep inside and pronounced the air-borne troops "the most modern expression of war."

"Soon," he told the parachute troops who gathered around him on his surprise visit, unannounced until today for security reasons, "you will have the opportunity of testifying to your belief in all those great phrases embodied in the American institution."

Funds Refused New Deal Units

Roosevelt To Have Less for Agencies

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—The Senate, approving the $8,577,533,978 Independent Offices Appropriation bill, voted today to withhold funds from any government agency in existence twelve months without direct congressional appropriations.

This ban, sponsored by Senator Russell (D-Ga.), struck particularly at the president's fair employment practices committee and other agencies Mr. Roosevelt has financed from funds given him for discretionary use.

The Senate also wrote into the bill an amendment requiring that the Senate confirm all federal employees appointed to jobs paying $4,500 a year or more. The vote was 31 to 23.

The Employment committee, set up to prevent discrimination in war jobs, first was excluded from the money ban when Republicans teamed with Northern and Western Democrats in support of a plea by Senator Buck (R-Ind.) who said "the colored folk feel deeply interested."

But, after Senator George (D-Ga.) had charged that by this exception, Republicans had forfeited all rights to complain against bureaucracy, the senators about faced and killed Buck's amendment on a 33 to 26 vote. They had approved it previously, 37 to 21.

Stunt Fliers Put On Show in N. Y.

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP)—Office workers in downtown skyscrapers today were given an unofficial air show by three swift and low flying planes, the identity of which still remains a mystery.

Stunting under East River bridges and "buzzing" the Empire State building, the R. C. A. building and other tall structures, the planes attracted the attention of thousands.

Frank Powell, former "aircraft spotter and Empire State building observatory manager," said the planes were "Grumann Hellcats, one carrying British RAF markings. Police said their plane, dispatched to the area, failed to sight the stunting trio.

Maine Democrats, Want Roosevelt

LEWISTON, Me., March 24 (AP)—Maine Democrats approved a fourth term for President Roosevelt today, their state convention instructing delegates to the Chicago national convention next July to vote for his re-nomination as long as his name is before that convocation.

Giesler Barred from Questioning Joan Berry Regarding Past Affair

By GENE HANDSAKER

LOS ANGELES, March 24 (AP)—A court ruling this afternoon prevented Charlie Chaplin's lawyer questioning Joan Berry about a romance with another man and Attorney Jerry Giesler told reporters: "This closes the door on our books."

Immediately after a brief recess Giesler announced he was through with the cross examination of the government's chief witness in its effort to convict the actor on a Mann act indictment. United States Attorney Charles

London Reports Two Great Raids On Nazi Centers

Large Scale Attack, According to Berlin

By W. W. HERCHER

LONDON, Saturday, March 25 (AP)—"Aircraft of the RAF bomber command were over Germany in strength during the night, with Berlin as the main objective," an authoritative British source announced today hard on the heels of the American daylight attacks which pounded Friday Frankfurt and Schweinfurt and the French airfields of Nancy and St. Dizier as the air war against German Europe raged without pause.

The German radio declared the night raid on Berlin was on a large scale.

High explosives and fire bombs blanketed all Berlin, the Germans said.

Germans Raid London

The Germans, who had offered little opposition to the daylight attacks, made it a "bottle of the capitals" Friday night with the longest most determined raid of the week on London.

It was their fourth consecutive night raid, and several waves of bombers caused casualties and damage with high explosive and incendiary bombs. A well-known building, a famous old church, and a publishing house were among London structures hit, along with many residences. The Germans also struck in Southeast England and East Anglia.

2,000 Planes Attack

About 2,500 American bombers and approximately the same number of fighters, including RAF Mustangs, took part in each of the two-day-long missions—a total of 1,000 planes—significantly demonstrating the Allies' growing command of the air. The raids were made at a cost of three bombers and five fighters although two of the targets, Frankfurt and Schweinfurt, are vital industrial centers heavily defended in the past.

The escort destroyed two Nazi aircraft on the ground and shot down a third as it was taking off. The Americans could not shoot any great number out of the air because, as a headquarters communiqué observed tonight, "few German interceptors challenged either the fighters or the bombers."

New Record Established

The mission was the nineteenth in March for the Eighth air force, topping the record of eighteen operations for a month, established in February.

Flying Fortresses struck 400 miles to Frankfurt and 475 to Schweinfurt, marking the fourteenth time in March that the American heavies had bombed German soil and providing a striking contrast to the days when the Eighth air force had to pay heavily to penetrate that deeply.

Frankfurt is a big manufacturing and distribution center with large railway yards and aircraft and other war industries. Schweinfurt is the home of ball bearing factories which once produced more than half of Germany's supply of this war essential.

Zivic Wins Decision Over Harry Teaney

MILWAUKEE, March 24 (AP)—Pittsburgh's Zivic used ringmanship and an eight-pound weight advantage tonight to snare a close ten-round win over Harry Teaney.

The former welterweight champion of the world had a rough time of it with the Cleveland Irishman who solved Zivic's defense in a roaring fifth round that left the veteran a trifle shaken.

Zivic had taken the first four rounds by successively narrower margins, and came back strongly to shade Teaney in the sixth and seventh. Teaney dug in again midway in the eighth and mauled the old master for most of the stanza.

Reds Honor Marshall

LONDON, March 24 (AP)—General George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the United States army, has been awarded the order of Zhukov first class, the Moscow radio announced tonight.

From a grandstand the prime minister and the generals watched splendidly executed parachute leaps. Many scores of aircraft swept down and as they reached the slanting base a number of parachutists tumbled out.

$3,500,000,000 "Bill of Rights" Measure for Vets Passed by Senate

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—The Senate passed unanimously late today a $3,500,000,000 "G-I bill of rights" measure providing virtually every suggested aid to veterans of this war except adjusted compensation (bonus) payments.

The measure, which now goes to the House, carries an estimated $3,000,000,000 in benefits plus a flat $300,000,000 authorization for construction of new hospital facilities. It provides for government-paid education of from one to four years

(based on length of service) for service men and women, plus:

1. Unemployment compensation of $15-a-week for a maximum of fifty-two weeks out of a twenty-four-month period.

2. Loans up to $1,000 for the purchase of farms, homes or businesses.

3. A veterans' job placement service.

4. Designation of the veterans' administration to administer all of its provisions under a status as a war agency.

The Dire Menace Of Bureaucracy

THE MENACE OF BUREAUCRACY overhanging this nation is being stressed by public speakers and it is needed in view of its noxious import. Speaking in behalf of the Republican contender and against the New Dealer opposing him in the special Second congressional district campaign now under way in Oklahoma, Senator W. Lee O'Daniel, Texas Democrat, gave warning against this enormous machinery by which the Washington administration is furthering its control over the people and depriving them of their liberty of action.

The nation today, Senator O'Daniel declared, is "absolutely smothered under a load of boards and bureaus." Every activity of mankind is today regulated by some bureaucrat in Washington or their flunkies who swarm across the country.

More than 3,000,000 of these government flunkies flounder in the government feed trough.

Not only is this the fact, but the administration has plans on which it has been constantly working to increase the number of these bureaucrats and enhance their power over the people.

There is the Wagner-Murray bill, the "cradle-to-the-grave" scheme of governmental paternalism, as a conspicuous example. This measure, according to a careful examination of it made by the Maryland Public Expenditure Council, would "create a vast bureaucracy with power to regulate and interfere with our liberties from prenatal life even to the tomb." "And not one of those exercising this power," the report points out, "would be responsible to the people. Few in fact, would be known to the people and none could be directly removed from power by the people themselves. Thus, in those every-day activities wherein the fullest personal liberty is necessary to happiness, contentment and progress, people would be governed by persons not selected by themselves. This is not democracy."

It positively is not. The people should take heed of this growing monster and act accordingly. If the New Deal is continued in power they shall not only have the liberty-destroying Wagner-Murray bill, but others of like kind; and bureaucracy will have become so powerful and the control exercised thereby so dictatorial that the people will be lowered to the status of serfdom. The only preventive for this ominous prospect is a thorough political housecleaning, "from president down" as O'Daniel puts it, through the agency of the ballot this coming November.

The Nazi Grip Seems Terribly Secure

INFORMATION coming from Germany about events in that country naturally must be sifted with extreme care. The Germans are masters at deception. Nevertheless, there seems little doubt that the Nazi hierarchy is facing a sort of political crisis as a result of constantly increasing Allied pressure.

The German political and military establishments are separate units. Any sign of weakness on the domestic front must not give the impression that it necessarily means weakness on the fighting front.

It has been said often, and it deserves repeating, that the Nazi war machine, for all its setbacks, remains a powerful, cohesive and highly flexible corps, well trained, well disciplined and loyal to the government. What happens on the home front has had no corresponding effect on the German armies, save for lessened production.

It is now a confirmed fact that Adolf Hitler is no longer a god to the Germans at home. More and more he has retreated into seclusion. This past "heroes' day" he even permitted Adm. Doenitz to make the speech of the day in his stead. A popular leader hardly would permit that to happen.

Marshal Goering is known to have lost considerable caste as a result of the terrible poundings of German cities and because of the Luftwaffe's inability to compete on any possible basis of equality. Goering talked too much about Germany's invincibility in the air and he has become the butt of innumerable bitter jokes.

The man who has come to the front in recent months is the brutal and efficient Heinrich Himmler. Himmler's influence in Germany is incalculable, partly because of his own private army, the 600,000 black-uniformed SS troops. These private troops of Himmler could be used to break any domestic insurrection, or perhaps even to terrorize recalcitrant politicians.

There have been some reports that

Goebbels has been ordered to use his vast propaganda machine to "humanize" Himmler to the German masses and it is possible that the Gestapo chief is preparing the way to step into power in the event it becomes impossible for Hitler to stay on as the all-powerful. All of which indicates how terribly secure is the Nazi grip on modern Germany.

Morale may sink to the depths, cities may be destroyed to rubble, but the tyrants may continue to rule right up to the day of destruction.

Republican Objectives

REPUBLICANS in Congress are firm in their determination that the legislative branch of the federal government shall assume its prerogatives as set forth in the constitution. Recent historic developments demonstrate that in this determination they have the aid and support of Democrats now in revolt against playing the role of being rubber stamps to the executive branch of the government.

Republican party leaders, furthermore, have a positive and constructive program as they make progress in reestablishing the prestige of Congress as a coordinate branch of the government. In a recent address, Representative Joseph W. Martin, of Massachusetts, able leader of the Republican minority in the House of Representatives, outlined the following Republican objectives:

(1) Winning the war; (2) Defend the constitution; (3) Eliminate waste and extravagance in expenditures; (4) Simplification of tax returns; (5) Tax reform based on capacity to pay; (6) Plan for return of men and women from fighting fronts to real jobs—not doles or handouts; (7) Care for disabled veterans, rehabilitation for the maimed and restoration of lost educational opportunities; (8) Maintenance of private enterprise; (9) Return of power from bureaucrats to the people; (10) Guard against increasing regimentation; (11) Better care of aged; (12) End to class prejudices and preferences and cleavage to American ideals and American institutions.

A heavy and serious bill of particulars, indeed. But who can say it does not faithfully represent the ideals and aspirations of Americans everywhere? Of the dozen, the first two are paramount and incontrovertible. Of the others, all are extremely important but one—No. 8—maintenance of private enterprise—is outstanding and embodies as nothing else does the future destiny of America. And equally essential is the stipulation that power be returned from the bureaucrats to the people.

Paul's Resignation No Great Matter

RANDOLPH PAUL, who spearheaded the Treasury's unsuccessful drive for greatly increased wartime taxes, has quit as the Treasury's general counsel—a post he held three years.

Paul, who went to the Treasury from a New York law firm, told the president in his letter of resignation that he felt that he could "contribute little more at present" in his job.

That feeling is well grounded in view of the fact that neither he nor any of the other so-called Treasury experts has contributed little of value, if anything, in the past. The ineptitude of the Treasury department will not be remedied, however, until there is a more competent chief in charge, which the people will in all likelihood arrange for this November.

Nine hundred million man hours, enough to make 40,000 four-engine bombers, were consumed in making out income tax reports. If this work could be transferred to federal payroll employees, it is estimated an additional 1,000,000 could be added to the payroll.

Geologists say the earth's surface is becoming dangerously thin in places. Perhaps the old girl needs a retreat job.

Dictionaries of the future probably will define the meaning of "honorable" as "in the non-Japanese sense."

First Find Yourself!

By MARSHALL MASLIN

No one is looking for you. Nobody knows you are lost. You can stay where you are forever and never be missed.

If you want to be found you must find yourself. That's the truth and don't you doubt it.

Maybe you've read of obscure geniuses who have been discovered—as children, as grown men and women, as grave-diggers—and sometimes after they were dead and gone. And some people acquire fame as the discoverers of genius. But no man was ever discovered until after he discovered himself.

Wherever talent gleams or genius burns, wherever the human spirit rises in song and overcomes the dull commonplace, you hear the loud presumptuous claim: "I discovered that!" So many claims, but so few have the right to say: "If it had not been for me, that talent would have shriveled, that genius would have been throttled." And perhaps you have come to believe that until you are discovered you are nothing and that you must WAIT to be found.

But a man must find himself before he is worth anything, and a woman must know that she herself exists before any discoverer can find anything worth finding.

There must be pride and joy and hope and confidence and a human being must have the wisdom to say:

"Here I am, a human being, and there is something more for me to do. I have arms, hands, and fingers; I have a head, brains, thoughts; I have dreams, sympathies and passions. I have known anger, grief and delight. I am more than a rock in the road or a pale flower in a shadowed corner. I am a human with a life of my own."

Because first you must find yourself. And if you do not, you won't get the job and get the applause or win the promotion or the girl or any other good thing. It's too bad but if you wait to be discovered by someone else you'll never be found.

Tragedy of Sicily Needs Full Study, Lawrence Says

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, March 24. — Publication of certain criticism in these dispatches recently concerning the loss of 410 American lives and twenty-three transport planes in Sicily last July due to our own gunfire has brought forth informal explanations from army air forces sources, and from other War department sources.

These may be summarized as follows:

1. The army air forces contend that they had not the remotest responsibility for the orders that sent the troop transports into action or for the course taken by the planes, and that the Associated Press dispatch of last week which expressed the view of naval authorities in the area abroad to the effect that the air forces operated separately in this venture was inaccurate.

2. The air forces enjoy autonomy of authority only at the top level of the staff but not in the field, where they operate under orders of the theater commander and on no front is an air officer in over-all command.

3. The air forces are not using their energies to promote a separate or independent air force but are devoting their attention to the problems of the war. They feel they have been unfairly criticized for their part in the Sicilian episode.

Broad View Taken

4. The headquarters viewpoint of the army takes a broad view of the whole incident and says the transports were under the command of the general in charge of operations and that the air forces operated solely as aerial truck drivers, merely delivering men from one destination to another as ordered.

5. The operation was a highly complicated amphibious movement involving delicate questions of timing and location. Orders were issued, but with 3,000 ships at sea in that area and with many of the troops in action for the first time, it appears that orders were not always understood or properly delivered. This is also the detached viewpoint of army headquarters here.

6. As for suppression or withholding of the news for eight months, this is explained as the responsibility of the commander in the local theater of operations affected, and though Washington may think certain things should be announced, the local commander evidently has the final say. In this instance the local commander presumably felt that to disclose any part of the facts would have required further disclosure and that this would have affected operations to come.

Some Things Not Cleared Up

The foregoing explanation does clear up the point that the overall orders for the dispatching of transport planes did not come from the air forces and that it was not done on their initiative. It also explains why the news was not immediately revealed, but it will be asked why, after a month or so had elapsed, the public could not have been told the facts instead of having them leak out accidentally and thus necessitate an official statement only when the leak occurred.

In war some mistakes are inevitable. The navy has made its mistakes as well as the army. The loss of four cruisers at night in 1942 in the Solomons when the Japanese caught us by surprise in a harbor is a case in point. But the news was announced shortly thereafter, though the blame for what happened has never been disclosed for fear, it is understood, of hurting the feelings of another country whose naval officer had a primary responsibility in the affair. Other mistakes have doubtless occurred in firing on ground troops with one's own artillery.

Relentless Study the Answer

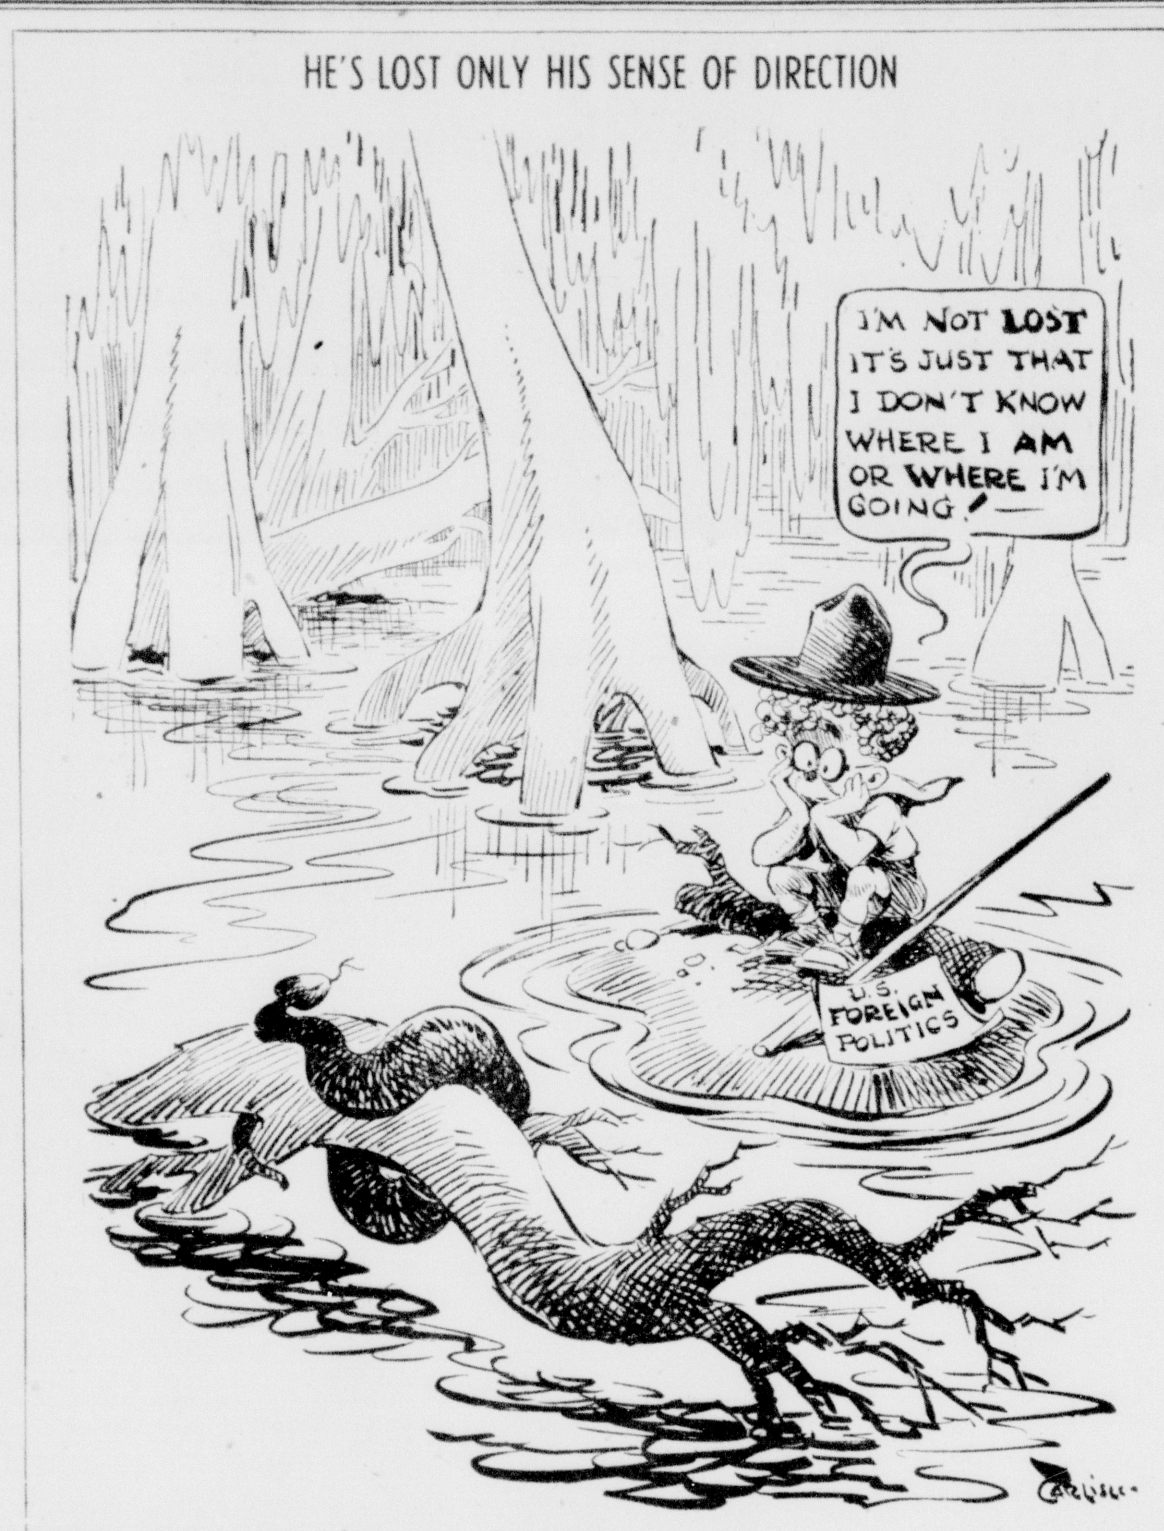

The answer to all this is a relentless study of the facts by disinterested parties.

TURN ON F. D. R.

SENATOR EDWIN C. JOHNSON

(D) of Colorado, in recent months has open critique of the administration, has parted company with President Roosevelt, charging that "history will name the fourth term if it ever materializes, as the term of defeat and frustration." Johnson said that "one-man control" has reduced the once great and powerful Democratic party to hopeless impotency.

Importance of Infantry and Logistics Makes Need of More Men Imperative

By MARK SULLIVAN

Because the announcements about more men for the armed forces have come from different official sources, and because the announcements have overlapped and in some cases differed in detail, the public has not yet got the full impact of a momentous condition. The need for more men is absolute, the decision of the armed forces to get them is correspondingly and properly imperative. From what sources the men are to be taken, the cancellation of deferments, the taking of men formerly classified as 4-F or otherwise unavailable, the effect on manpower in farming and industry—all these are details. The grim necessity of getting more men is unescapable. The country must face it. Hundreds of thousands of men must conform to it.

The necessity arises from the present stage of the war and a change in the nature of the war. For understanding this change, a little history will help, as often. Go back to the time when our draft system was first planned in 1940, and the conditions that then existed.

Prompted by Conquest

In June 1940, Germany conquered France; and it was immediately after that event, and because of it, that we proceeded to create a large army. The draft act was introduced in the same months as the conquest of France, was debated during the summer, and enacted in September. The discussion in Congress, and also the planning by army heads, was much influenced by the German conquest of France, and the method by which that conquest was accomplished.

But what happened? The enormous superiority of Germany in the air in 1940, something like 7 to 1, did not enable her to conquer England. Similar disillusion arose about tanks. Tanks, with air force, used to make breaches in opposition infantry and thus overcome large armies, was successful in the early German conquests of France and Poland. But presently, defenses against tanks and tank strategy, arose. Today in no theater of the war do "break-throughs" by tanks occur. Air force is still enormously effective, but not decisive. The air bombing of Cassino in Italy was as complete as possible to make it, but did not enable us to take Cassino.

Foot-Soldiers Essential

We now know, in Cassino and other theaters of the war, that in the final showdown, battles and wars must be won by the ancient reliance, infantry, foot-soldiers, men with rifles and bayonets. Of these we must have so many as to accomplish one of two results—either actually fight the war to victory, or so impress the German high command as to lead them to give up. The necessity for infantry becomes important as we approach opening a second front.

It is this that leads to the necessity of drafting more men for combat. For a collateral reason, we must also draft more men, of a different type, for certain special services. In proportion as we enlarge the number of infantry, and increase the size of our armies in Europe, and also in proportion as our armed forces, by their very successes, in Europe and in the South Pacific, move constantly farther and farther away from their home ports and bases in America—in that proportion must we have more men for the services which military men call "logistics," meaning transportation, supply, stores and the like. These services can be performed by men not qualified for combat, men now classified as 4-F.

It is the sum of these demands that creates the present re-survey of our manpower, a new scraping of the bottom of the barrel.

man conquest of France, and the method by which that conquest was accomplished.

The method was chiefly a co-ordination of two special forms of mechanized warfare—air force and tanks. By this, a comparatively small German force overcame the immense French army—and this influenced the thought of the time. Typical of the view that then existed, in popular thought and among some military men, was a passage printed in this column August 15, 1940:

"The total number of German soldiers in actual fighting in the battle of France has been estimated at startlingly low figures. A comparatively small number because of their skill in mechanized war, and in co-ordination, was able to overcome several times as many French, British and Belgian soldiers."

From this arose a view, now proved to be in part wrong. It was thought the war could be won by superiority in air force and tanks, that immense numbers of men would not be necessary. An often repeated fallacy became current, was entertained even by some military men—that infantry had become outmoded. Influenced by this view, our early planning for the war stressed air power and tanks.

But what happened? The enormous superiority of Germany in the air in 1940, something like 7 to 1, did not enable her to conquer England. Similar disillusion arose about tanks. Tanks, with air force, used to make breaches in opposition infantry and thus overcome large armies, was successful in the early German conquests of France and Poland. But presently, defenses against tanks and tank strategy, arose. Today in no theater of the war do "break-throughs" by tanks occur. Air force is still enormously effective, but not decisive. The air bombing of Cassino in Italy was as complete as possible to make it, but did not enable us to take Cassino.

Eire Situation Is Viewed As Holding Up the Invasion

By CENTRAL PRESS

WASHINGTON — If any doubt still lingers in the mind of Premier Josef Stalin of Russia that the Anglo-American offensive across the English channel to break the back of the German dragon has been delayed indefinitely, he may find the answer in Eire.

Action of the United States in requesting Ireland to sever diplomatic relations with the Axis did not come about as a bit of diplomatic "horseplay" on the part of Washington.

Eire's refusal and Britain's cutting off traffic between the United Kingdom and Southern Ireland are sequences filled with significance at history's modern turning point.

Of course, as Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has said, German, Japanese, and particularly German agents are active under the neutrality cloak they wear in Dublin as the hour for the great struggle approaches.

In a sense, the United States asked Ireland to become a St. Patrick, and drive out the snakes in diplomatic clothing.

May Change Mind

And Eire may yet change its mind under popular pressure from a far from docile, decidedly truculent and liberty-loving people—who feel with the English but detest anti-clericalism of the Nazis.

There is a mounting opinion in some Washington quarters that the diplomatic controversy may result in the worsening of a situation that has remained fairly well under control ever since the Germans "shoved" into Poland in 1939.

The views of the Allied nations are, of course, well understood, the light of the impending invasion, but, conversely, Ireland's position, a world conflict has, to a large extent, escaped public understanding.

Ireland, as has been already pointed out by that nation's minister to the United States, Robert Brennan, has aided greatly in relieving the critical food situation that has obtained in Great Britain since the outbreak of the war.

Allies Get Food

While remaining neutral, Ireland has sent virtually all her food exports to the United Kingdom, and virtually no food from Ireland has found its way to the enemy's enemy-dominated nations in the European fortress of which Hitler boasts.

There are good grounds for the belief that the traditional animosity which has existed between British commonwealth and Eire will become so agitated by the present incident that this source of food may be cut off from the British.

Then, again, Ireland may be thus sparing the United States for their strain in feeding the British.

Even if the Dublin government casts out enemy diplomatic representatives, the extent to which it has succeeded in spying on Allied troop movements may be but slightly diminished.

If Eire gives the diplomats the walking papers, Axis espionage agents may be driven deeper underground to work their black schemes in complete secrecy.

Ireland, at the crossroads, is winking red and green light on the highway to continental invasion.

House Change Anticipated

House Republicans, under leadership of quiet, politically-shrewd Joe Martin, are "missing no beats" laying the foundation for what they confidently expect will be a GOP majority in the lower chamber this November.

Appointment of a twenty-member committee to study war taxes is a straw in the wind.

The program is intended to indicate to the country that the Republicans in the House are a minority party "on its toes."

Further, debates on taxes will give the Republicans some information and experience which will be useful when, and if, they take control of the House after the November elections.

The Popularity Of Masterpieces

From the Johnstown, Pa., Democrat

Why should great pictures be hidden away in a museum, seen only by the people who make a special trip there? Why should not masterpieces of painting be advertised as well as a cigaret and cosmetics?

The New York Metropolitan Museum, the country's greatest, seems to reason why not. For many months now the museum has been publishing colored prints of the pictures on its subway advertising cards. The pictures are labeled "Great Art" and that nobody can have any doubt about it. They bear the names of the artist and the museum, and a statement that prints available for ten cents (ten cents to those visiting them directly at the museum). Do people appreciate art when it is called to their attention? They do, indeed. Over 60,000 prints have been sold so far, of the thirteen pictures advertised. Best of all, the museum heads is the appreciation of fine painting that this advertising brings.

Loneragan Defense Fights Under Way

His "Confession" May Be Ruled Out

By JAMES DEVLIN

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP)—The defense began a grim fight today at the murder trial of Loneragan to block admission of his purported confession that he had shot and choked to death his wife, Patricia, heiress to $6,000,000, on Oct. 24.

Defense Counsel Edward V. Broderick called two prosecuting attorneys to the witness stand in an attempt to prove the statement was made by subjecting the 26-year-old Canadian aircraftman to hours of questioning without rest.

Loneragan, dressed in a dark blue suit, sat calmly at the counsel table as the attorneys battled over the point that may decide his fate.

Key to State's Case

The prosecutor has said that the confession is the key to the case and has maintained there was no witness to the crime.

The tall defendant appeared unmoved as his alibi was introduced to the record—a sordid story of a man having unnatural relations with an American soldier in the apartment about the time his wife was slain in her own apartment.

First assistant District Attorney Frank S. Grumet, and then his deputy, F. Loehr, were subjected to a series of questions by Broderick concerning circumstances of the confession.

Then District Attorney Frank S. Grumet, in a brief appearance as a witness, denied he ever had assumed any of his staff to promise Loneragan that he would not be charged with first degree murder if he confessed.

Denies "Sweating" Charge

Grumet denied heatedly that Loneragan had been "sweated" by Loehr, who went to Toronto after the crime, said Loneragan had returned voluntarily to New York.

Broderick attempted to show that Loneragan went without sleep for more than twenty-four hours from the time he reached the district attorney's office in New York until he was booked, in addition to the travel time from Toronto.

He also brought out from Loehr that Loneragan was left alone with two New York detectives in Toronto before he signed a waiver to accompany the officials to New York.

Broderick said he intended to call to the stand both detectives and four or five others who participated in New York in his efforts to break in a police line-up with Loneragan the so-called confession evidence. This interruption in the presentation of prosecution evidence delayed the courtroom appearance of Jean Murphy Jaburg, blonde former show girl who accompanied Loneragan to the theater the night before the slaying.

Lawyers Clash Again

Broderick and Grumet, who had clashed frequently in the preliminary stages of the case, but who had been docile since General Sessions Judge James Garrett Wallace took over, resumed their verbal dueling under the set-up whereby Grumet was on the stand under examination by Broderick.

"Did you flash a picture of the body under Loneragan's nose and say, 'You son of a - - - see what you did to your wife?'" Broderick asked.

"No such thing ever happened," said Grumet.

"Did you feed him brandy?"

"I did not and you know it."

Grumet had said that Loneragan had a bottle or two of liquor with him when he arrived at the district attorney's office.

Judge Wallace asked whether there had been any threats or whether anybody struck Loneragan.

"Certainly not," said Grumet.

Broderick asked:

Silent about Threat

"Did you hear anyone say to Loneragan that G - - - D - - - homosexuality stuff won't look good in public print and you had better come clean?"

"I don't remember that," said Loehr.

Earlier, Detective James Wall of the Toronto police, read a transcript of a statement Loneragan gave to Canadian officers. In it, Loneragan told of visiting several night clubs with Mrs. Jaburg and, after leaving her, of meeting a soldier. He said he took him to the apartment of John Harjes. They retired at 6 a. m. and when he awoke at 10 or 11 o'clock the soldier was gone, Loneragan added, along with a wrist watch, money and his RCAF uniform.

Loneragan borrowed slacks and a coat from the apartment, and took a toy elephant to his wife's apartment at about noon Sunday to give to his baby, but he got no response, he said, and left the toy inside the entrance.

left for Tulsa, did you have a conversation with Hans Reusch in which you said in effect that you were broke but that you knew you could get some money in Oklahoma from a business man who had to give you some money because you had made a trip from Mexico and there is a law against that in the United States and he can't do that?"

Reusch was not further identified. It was propounded by Giesler, defending the actor against Mann act charges involving a trip to New York where Chaplin met his 24-year-old protegee, and came at the start of the afternoon session of court.

Letter from Joan

The forenoon session was terminated abruptly after Miss Berry broke into sobs upon the introduction of a letter she wrote Chaplin in which she said: "I know what I've done is past forgiving," and "I'm going back to New York."

Red-haired Joan, clad in a violet coat, sat in the witness chair staring at the floor and Charlie shifted in his chair as defense Attorney Giesler read the letter.

There were arguments and a conference over another letter Joan wrote to Charlie from Tulsa. Judge J. F. T. O'Connor ruled out the first page of that letter and six lines of the second page.

During the arguments over the admissibility of the letters, Miss Berry began to cry. She pleaded with the court for a recess and was led sobbing from the courtroom.

The second letter, which Giesler read, was written on stationery of the Mayo hotel in Tulsa, and was dated Nov. 18, 1942. It said:

"CHARLES:

"I am so sorry for the unbalanced and undisciplined way I have acted—sorry because it's caused by annoyance and embarrassment. I can't ask you to forgive me because I know what I've done is past forgiving."

"In this whole stupid mess there are only two things that remained perfect. I never doubted—for one second—that I was to be Bridget." (Apparently a reference to a motion picture role she was to have played for Chaplin) "That knowledge compensated for the pain I felt when I knew that I was never really close to you."

"I thought loving you and knowing that you never wanted or would ever allow me to become a part of your life was torture, but now that I know that I am not to be Bridget, my cup is full."

Only Way Out

"I must admit, though, that after the way I've acted, it's the only thing you could do."

"Thank you for buying the play; thank you for giving up your time to teach me. It was wonderful to have almost been Bridget."

"And thank you, Charles, for letting me know you—you, the greatest genius and artist living. You never really understood) knew of the countless, sleepless nights and millions of unspent letters. You'd laugh at them but they were pretty real to me."

"I know you're not interested in my plans, but I'd like to tell you anyway. I'm going back to New York to get married. (There really is a boy who wants to marry me.)"

"I'm going back to New York just as I left it. No clothes, no car, no money. Perhaps it's for the best."

"This way it seems as if these past three years have been a dream and I'm happy and content in that dream."

"I hope that 'Landreau' is as great a success as all your other pictures and I hope you personally will find continued happiness."

"Forget all those mean things I've done if you can, and remember instead the stupid girl who ruined the greatest chance the motion pictures has ever offered."

"Always yours,

"JOAN."

In the first of the letters, Miss Berry, signing herself, "always yours, Joan," wrote of her plans to marry another man after spending Thanksgiving with her mother.

"Then the fatal plunge," she wrote. "He wants to get married Saturday."

"By the way, I've had a lot of explaining to do as to the reason I'm in Tulsa and not in New York," she added. "Luckily the 'best girl' friend and I must see her still works."

Charlie Not on Train

Previously Giesler had taken Miss Berry again over the incidents of her trip to New York upon which the Mann act charge is based. He brought out that she was accompanied by her mother and that Chaplin was not on the same train.

She first encountered the actor in New York at a night club, Miss Berry said, and several days later she telephoned Chaplin's hotel apartment and asked his butler, Edward Chaney, if he thought Chaplin would see her.

A day or so after that, she continued, she called Thomas Wells Durant, a friend of the actor, and left her telephone number.

She met Chaplin again at a night club and the same evening accompanied him to another. In a taxi, she said, the actor suggested she go to his apartment to discuss some matters.

There, Miss Berry testified, she had sexual relations with Chaplin after he had disrobed completely. The actor accompanied her to her own hotel afterward, she declared, and later she returned here alone and next saw Chaplin three or four days later when he took her to a night spot.

Used Assumed Name

Leading up to the Tulsa affair, Giesler elicited testimony that Miss Berry went to Oklahoma city, remained there about a week and registered under an assumed name at the Ambassador hotel upon her return to Los Angeles.

First she said Chaplin had not paid her hotel bill there but amended her answer to say his studio eventually paid the hotel bill because Judge Griffith had ordered that he should. Mr. Arden paid it.

Police Judge Charles Griffin of Beverly Hills and Robert Arden, a broadcaster, are among persons charged in a federal indictment with conspiracy to deprive Miss Berry of her civil rights by the suspension of a vagrancy sentence on condition that she leave Beverly Hills.

The young woman related two visits to Chaplin's Beverly Hills home, the first about Dec. 23, 1942, when she said she entered with a loaded pistol breaking a glass door.

About an hour and a half after her arrival, she testified, she and the actor engaged in an act of intimacy. She surrendered the pistol only during the act, she said, and recovered it later. She gave it up only after Chaplin gave her $50, she added.

The next visit, she related, was a week afterward, when she paid the actor a midnight visit "to get my $25 I was receiving each week." After an obvious mental effort, she recalled that the pair indulged in intercourse upon that occasion.

Before leaving for Tulsa, Miss Berry said, she lived here for a time with Elaine Barrymore, last wife of the late actor John Barrymore.

No Evidence Seen of Japanese Making Real Advances in India

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

Delhi advises tell of continued British empire troops in the region in India, but give no indication that any substantial force has yet been brought to the west of the Burma-Assam front.

Nor is there any mention of the presence in that theater of the national Indian army. Premier Nehru confuted up for Japanese front consumption to support statement that a bull-scale "invasion" of India was in progress. That may not be conclusive evidence that the Japanese incursion into the upper Chindwin region in India is in reality the minor element in the news.

British censorship in India is notably tight, but the only element in the news permitted to reach the outside on surprise Japanese jab from Burma that justified big headlines was the fact that the Japanese did pass stories based on statements describing it as a "major" enemy operation.

That now is added the statement from Allied headquarters in Delhi that troops available in Assam zone are superior to Japanese forces involved.

General Sewell, official British military commentator, estimates that perhaps six Japanese divisions all told widely scattered in Burma, exclusive of troops defending Akyab in the Arakan sector which are not, he added, in a "position to assist the main Japanese offensive in the north." If it is correct it is obvious that the "invasion" is the small-scale military affair Allied spokesmen in New Delhi seem to regard as a "minor" enemy operation.

Willkie Cautions Republicans Not To Make Capital from Complaints

BELOIT, Wis., March 24 (AP)—Predicting invasion of the European continent before the fall election, Wendell L. Willkie said today that the vast military operation in progress "there could be no more mistake than for the opposition (Republican) party to seek to build strength on the people's transitory wartime complaints and discontent."

He said that in his judgment the invasion was necessary and unless there was an internal collapse in Germany "the casualty lists will be heart-breaking long, will deeply hurt the people and profoundly affect their thinking."

"I can't tell you about the possibility of collapse in Germany and some else can," the candidate for the Republican presidential nomination told a luncheon meeting.

German Occupation of Rumania Prevents Effective Peace Move

By WES GALLAGHER

LONDON, March 24 (AP)—The Rumania embassy at Ankara, Turkey, announced today that it had confirmed the German occupation of Rumania, and diplomatic quarters in London agreed that Hitler's sudden grab had forestalled any effective peace move by the Nazis.

The possibility that the Allies have been quick to stir up as much trouble for Hitler as possible in the disunion-torn Balkans was seen in Berlin radio reports that parachutists in British uniforms had been dropped into Rumania and a Rumanian Jewish ring dealing with them had been caught.

There were numerous indications that the Nazi maneuver has not mixed with the occupation of Hungary and Rumania, Turkish advances reported that German reinforcements had been rushed to all

Bricker Asks Impartial Probe Of Our Governmental Structure

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 24 (AP)—Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, starting a new southern swing in his campaign for the republican presidential nomination, declared tonight that "improving of our governmental structure must be stopped."

The Ohio executive, in an address prepared for delivery at a mass meeting of Alabama Republicans, predicted a Republican victory in November and proposed that the entire governmental structure set up under the Roosevelt administration be placed under "thorough and systematic study."

"All agencies, boards, bureaus and commissions which are not performing an essential x x x function should be x x x liquidated," he said. "The number of government job-holders should be substantially reduced. All essential agencies now having an independent status should be placed under the jurisdiction of a responsible cabinet officer or department head."

Bricker suggested that the proposed governmental investigation be made "by competent and impartial officials, in consultation with the various industrial, agricultural, labor and other interests which small forces enemy employed, the very serious supply problems involved for the Japs and the highly flexible communications available to British empire defense forces, the approach of the wet monsoon season in Burma and India vetoes a major military operation by either side.

In any event, operations in Burma at this stage are merely skirmishing for position on the flank of the main battle theater envisaged in Allied creation of the Southern Asia Command under Admiral Lord Mountbatten to carry the war against the Nipponese from the southwest. The selection of Britain's leading Commando captain for that job made it quite clear that amphibious attacks across the Bay of Bengal to break into the southern end of the China sea ultimately via the straits of Malacca are in prospect.

Farm Machinery Exports Kept Low, Roosevelt Asserts

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—Farm machinery exported under Lend-Lease has been less than two percent of the American supply, President Roosevelt said today, and emphasized that those exports are helping feed the American army overseas, soon to rise to 5,000,000 men.

Mr. Roosevelt replied indirectly at his press-radio conference to complaints, in Congress and elsewhere, that farm machinery is being shipped abroad when American farmers are unable to get all they want.

"The role of the opposition party in wartime is an extremely difficult one," he said. "The profound dislocations and required sacrifices frequently cause momentary complaints and discontent. There is always the danger that the opposition party will seek to capitalize on these discontents."

Malcontents who sought to replace Abraham Lincoln in 1864, he recalled, "got the overwhelming defeat they always so richly deserved."

Now, with the invasion impending, Willkie asked whether "we are going to seek to build the Republican party by capitalizing on some cheap discontents, or will we say that our desire is to make the contribution greater, the effort more effective?"

"Will we stand and lead?" he demanded. "Therein that choice lies our defeat or victory in 1944."

points on the Rumanian and Bulgarian coasts of the Black sea in an apparent German move to prepare a stand against the onrushing Russian army.

The Moscow radio broadcast a Tass dispatch dated Istanbul which quoted "trustworthy sources" in the Turkish city as reporting that "German billeting officials recently arrived in Bulgaria with the task of preparing billets for six German divisions."

By one unconfirmed estimate current in Ankara, the Nazis have drawn off twenty-five divisions from their central reserve in Germany in order to carry out the occupations.

There were indications, too, of governmental disintegration under the impact of the occupations. Hungarian diplomats in Stockholm, Madrid and Bern refused to recognize the new puppet regime in Hungary.

Three Trips, No Action

Sgt. Frank J. Baadon, 26 of Baltimore, top turret gunner, made three trips this week.

"The only enemy planes I've seen were far off in the distance outside a fighter screen," he said. "I thought I was getting a break because the first mission was a short hop to France but the next two to Germany were no tougher."

Sgt. Robert W. Pagan, of Buffalo, N. Y., a gunner who is back on combat after recovering from wounds suffered in air battle last fall said:

"I've got in only one burst at one Messerschmidt-109 in five missions and then four P-38s zoomed right down out of the clouds and took him right off my hands."

BLOODY FRONT HAS 'BAREFOOT BOY'

THE FAMOUS "BAREFOOT BOY" is not confined to any one country. His counterpart is everywhere, even on the bloody Anzio-Nettuno beachhead. This one, holding his baby brother, is chatting with Ric. Orville C. Blackman of Wink, Tex.

Willkie Headquarters Opened in New York

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP)—National headquarters for Wendell L. Willkie's campaign as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination were opened today in the Grand Central terminal building.

With Willkie campaigning in Wisconsin, and Ralph H. Calkins, his campaign manager in Baltimore, the formal opening was delayed, but other members of the staff moved into the dozen rooms on the second floor of the building.

DRAGON HUNTING WITH AN EAGLE

THE GOLDEN EAGLE HOVERS READY FOR THE KILL

"TEQUILA" PINS THE LIZARD DOWN, TO BRING IT BACK ALIVE ALIGHTING ON THE WRIST (top) of Julie Mannix, explorer and naturalist, is "Tequila," a golden eagle she and her husband, Dan, obtained as a fledgling and trained to hunt and bring back quarry to them. Biggest game bagged in Mexico by "Tequila" was a five-foot-long giant iguana lizard. The eagle is shown (center) as it closed in for the attack. The tough-skinned lizard lashed back with its tail. "Tequila's" powerful claw held the lizard (bottom) until it exhausted itself trying to escape, and then flew the subdued victim back to the Mannixes. Nelson and Ickes Urge Stabilization Beyond War's End

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—Two of the administration's top men—War Production Chief Donald M. Nelson and Federal Reserve Chairman Marriner S. Eccles—urged Congress today to keep the country under stabilization controls beyond the war's end.

Nelson declared, however, that the need has passed for a national service act, recommended some time ago by President Roosevelt to authorize the drafting of civilian labor for essential industries. He did say a limited service law might help break a manpower deadlock between industry and the armed forces.

Eccles told the Senate Banking committee Congress should keep the stabilization program alive two years after the end of the war "to maintain the public faith and the value of the dollar." The committee is considering legislation to extend the price control act a year beyond June 30.

Willkie Replaces Dog Killed by Car

BELOIT, Wis., March 24 (AP)—A highway mishap today resulted in 18-month-old Billy Bettin of Allen's Grove, Wis., having a pedigree black Cocker spaniel puppy presented to him by Wendell Willkie, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

One of the cars in the motor caravan carrying Willkie and his party on his campaign tour of Wisconsin struck and killed Billy's black mongrel dog.

Willkie directed an associate to stop and extend apologies. Later the candidate selected a pup at a Beloit kennel and had it sent to the Bettin farm to replace the little boy's loss.

Willkie named the dog "Smoke." Later the boy's father telephoned to say Billy had renamed the pup "Wendell."

Arabia Pipeline Might Provoke War, Says J. Edgar Pew

DALLAS, March 24 (AP)—J. Edgar Pew, Philadelphia Oil Company executive, said today the Petroleum Reserves Corporation's proposed oil pipeline across Arabia "might put the United States into war quickly."

In a prepared statement criticizing the proposal, Pew, vice president of the Sun Oil Company, declared the line would "pass through an area, largely desert, peopled by at least four contentious elements with conflicting boundaries and racial problems England has tried for years to reconcile."

"A pipeline across this country would be subject continuously to sabotage which could be prevented only by liberal tributes to conflicting interests or by armed protection along its entire length."

"The necessity for the defense of this line and the base at the eastern end of the Mediterranean might put the United States into war quickly and without any option on the part of the people as to whether we wanted to go to war."

Willkie Not Critical Of Events in Eire

BELOIT, Wis., March 24 (AP)—Speaking at Burlington in his tour of Wisconsin, Wendell L. Willkie said he had in mind specifically the Irish situation. He declared that he did not want to get any votes resulting from irritation among Irish-Americans brought on by the government's demand that Eire banish Axis diplomats.

Asked after the address if his remarks were to be interpreted as retort to Harrison Spangler, national Republican chairman, Willkie replied:

"You will have to draw your own inferences."

Spangler was quoted yesterday as predicting that nationality groups in this country would desert the Democratic party in large numbers as the result of certain administration acts involving smaller countries.

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

Rayburn To Defend New Deal in Two Major Campaign Addresses in West

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—Speaker Sam Rayburn said today he will carry the Democratic banner into California for two major speeches next week in which he will reply to critics of OPA and other home front agencies and urge greater unity to bring about quick ending of the war.

The Texas legislator, who has figured prominently in speculation over the Democratic vice presidential nomination, will leave tomorrow to address Jackson day dinners at Los Angeles and San Francisco next Tuesday and Thursday, respectively.

The speaking dates were announced several weeks ago by the Democratic National committee.

Some Democratic politicians view the selection of Rayburn for both northern and southern California addresses as significant. However, friends of Vice President Wallace, who lost a bout with the Senate rules during a TVA debate today, insist he is still very much in the running for second place on the national ticket.

Asked what he expected to talk about in California—a state which joined with Rayburn's Texas at the 1932 national convention to swing the tide toward President Roosevelt's nomination—the speaker said: "I'm going to whip it up for unity on the home front. I'm going to urge that we get on the war and get it over with. I'm going to talk about postwar plans too."

Quelling government today stoked the purge fire.

"The Jewish question," the Budapest radio said, "is one of the urgent matters confronting the government now. The Jews in influential positions stood with their mouths agape when they saw German troops marching in. They realize they will be eliminated."

Neutral reports to London said Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler's purge squads were moving in the wake eastward of the spreading German army pressing the round-up of the anti-Nazis and minorities.

Sugar Toughens

Follow recipes in cooking and use level measurements. If you use more sugar than the recipe calls for, it may toughen the cake. Too much shortening will make it fall apart.

HERE'S A SOUFFLE GOOD FOR SPECIAL OCCASIONS

This recipe, Chicken and Rice Souffle, is a good one to keep in mind for special occasions as well as a treat for the family. It is a grand "party" dish, even though its base is a left-over Speedy and simple. It is a boon to the hostess who dislikes spending too much time in the kitchen away from her guests. The recipe serves four, but is easily doubled. No ration points either.

Ingredients: One cup cooked rice, one and one-half cups diced chicken; two eggs, beaten; three-quarters cup chicken broth.

Method: Mix cooked chicken and boiled rice. Season with salt and moutain well with broth, adding more if needed. Separate the eggs. Add well-beaten yolks, and carefully fold in beaten whites. Bake in moderate oven until golden brown on top. Leftover chicken and rice may be used.

That Fish Odor

To remove the odor of fish from tea towels and dishcloths, boil them for five minutes in one tablespoon baking soda added to one quart of water. Rinse in warm, then in cold water. Soda water will also remove fish odor from the hands.

Excellent Idea For Salmon Loaf

Some of your red points may go for canned fish. In that case salmon is a good choice because it is so versatile. It is excellent for a loaf.

Ingredients: One large can salmon; one teaspoon salt; one-half teaspoon pepper; one-half cup hot milk; one-fourth teaspoon paprika; two tablespoons lemon juice; two egg yolks; one-half cup cracker crumbs; three egg whites.

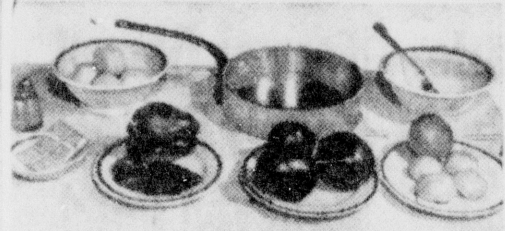

Directions: Remove skin and bones from salmon, mash fine. Mix salmon with salt, pepper, paprika, lemon juice, beaten egg yolks, cracker crumbs and milk. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into buttered loaf pan and bake one hour at 350 degrees F.

Soft Boiled Eggs

A good way to cook soft boiled eggs is to let the water come to a full boil, then put the eggs in and turn off gas or electricity, or take from fire if you cook with wood or coal. Cover closely and leave the eggs in the hot water for five minutes, then take up and serve.

The total American Indian population is estimated at about 390,000.

How To Cook a Spanish Omelet

1—Assemble ingredients: 1 oz. butter, 1 green and 1 red pepper, 3 tomatoes, 3 mushrooms, 5 eggs, salt, pepper.

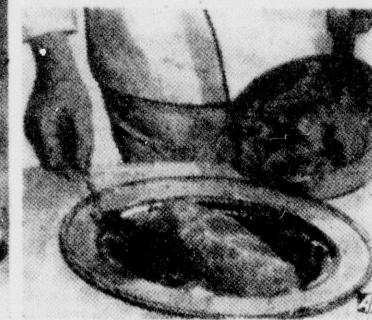

2—Saute mushrooms, onions, diced green pepper and butter for 10 minutes. Add red pepper, tomatoes, seasoning.

3—Beat eggs thoroughly and season. Chef Gabriel A. Fabre of New York's Hotel Barclay shows how it's done.

4—Cook omelet in very hot frying pan. Garnish inside with half the Spanish sauce, serve other half on the side.

5—Eat it up. U. S. Food Distribution Administration urges us to find more ways of using plentiful egg supply.

Cheese Dishes

Cook cheese dishes with care and low heat. In that way the cheese melts completely and spreads its flavor and protein through the whole dish. If cooked too quickly, cheese gets tough and stringy and settles in one spot instead of spreading.

Spoiling the Fat

Don't overheat fat you are cooking. It will spoil the food cooked in it. When it reaches the smoking point it breaks down chemically and off fumes that irritate the throat. Foods cooked in such fat are not easily digested.

RAISED DOUGHNUTS A GOOD VARIATION

We think you will like to try this variation in the usual doughnut recipe when you have a little more time to give to making them.

Ingredients: One cup milk; two tablespoons fat; one cake yeast; three-fourths cup sugar; three and one-half to four cups sifted flour; one egg; one and one-half teaspoons salt; three-fourths teaspoon nutmeg.

Directions: Scald the milk, add the fat, and when lukewarm, add the yeast and sugar. Stir in one and one-half cups flour. Allow the sponge to stand in a warm place until very light. Add the beaten egg and the rest of the flour. The dough should be softer than a bread dough. Cover and set in a warm place to rise. When light, roll from one-half to three-fourths inch thick on a lightly floured board. Cut out the doughnuts. Cover and set in a warm place until almost double in bulk. Fry in deep fat as for other doughnuts (about three minutes at 365 degrees F.), placing the raised side down in the fat.

Dogs were worshipped by ancient Egyptians.

Beef Cooking Suggestions

Beets will not lose their color, flavor and nutrients if they are properly cooked. Wash beets and cut off the tops two inches from the beets. The tops, if tender and fresh, can be cooked as greens to tie in with ham or other meats. Boil beets in water (half as much water as beets) in covered pan until tender when tested with long handled fork. Drain and plunge beets into cold water and the skins can then easily be rubbed off.

Reheat beets, add seasonings and cook over low heat or set the pan over an asbestos mat or cook in covered double boiler. Beets burn and scorch easily due to their sugar contents so they need watching.

"Bridge of San Luis Rey" Hits High for Realism

The public's demand for realism and authentic films is never better satisfied than with Benedict Bogeaus' hit production "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," currently at the Maryland theater, through United Artists release.

Mr. Bogeaus, a new producer, but a stickler for realism in his films, had Reynaldo Luza, Peru's foremost artist flown from his native land to Hollywood to serve as technical adviser of the picture.

All of the furniture in the film is an exact reproduction of the furniture used at the time of the story. Massive wood, inlaid with mother of pearl made the pieces awe-inspiring and huge. Such furniture is used in every interior sequence in the film.

For exterior sequences balconies and grill work should be noted. Those balconies were massive, heavy affairs carved beautifully by native workers.

Hall, as Ali Baba, Gets Hair Shorn

That handsome hero in Universal's Paul Malvern technicolor production, "Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves," now at the Liberty theater, is Jon Hall—with a hair-cut.

Not since "The Invisible Agent" has Hall made a film on his home lot with a reasonably short tussle. "Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves," "Tales of Taiti," "White Savage" and "Cobra Woman" all required that familiar South Seas "long bob."

Even Hall's mustache has a neat trim for his role of Ali Baba.

Roy Rogers Stars In Garden Picture

Currently showing at the Garden theater today is Roy Rogers in "Jesse James at Bay." Rogers now ranks with Gene Autry in popularity.

The co-feature at the Garden today is another in the widely-liked Falcon series. The Falcon Strikes Back starring Tom Conway and Jean Brooks.

Shrines on the Road to Rome

Nazis May Force Allies To Bomb More Sacred Monuments

AP Features

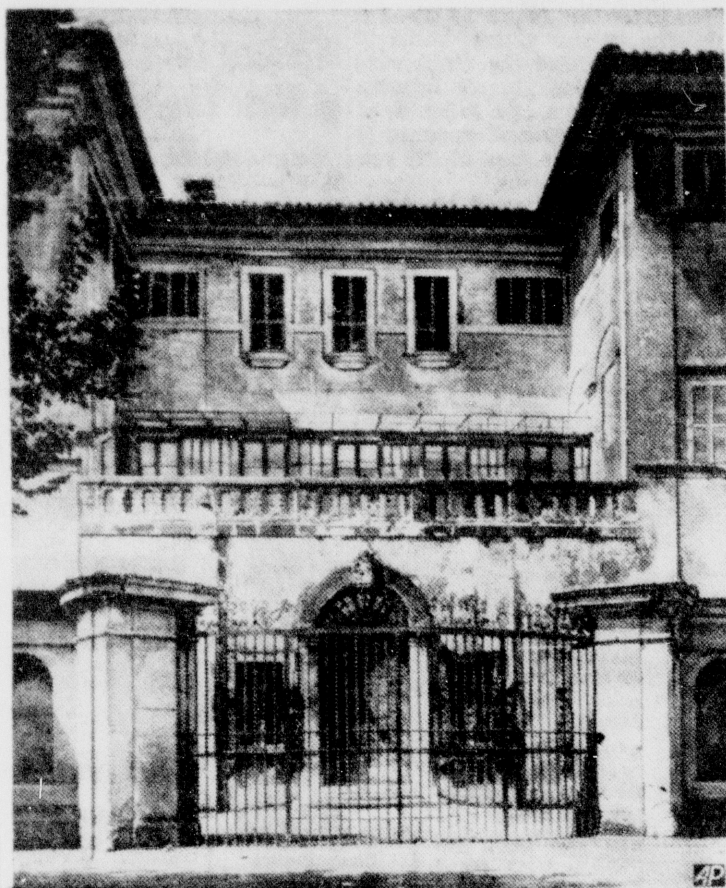

To bomb or not to bomb—the problem at Monte Cassino—will have to be decided many times more before the Allies reach Rome. Lining the roads to Italy's capital are scores of religious shrines and historic monuments that may become targets of Allied fire if the Nazis turn them into arsenals as they did at Cassino.

Shrines in the danger zone along the Via Cassilina and the Appian way—the two main western routes to Rome—in many cases pre-date the Christian era. Built directly over the ruins of temples of the pagan gods, they have been places of worship for thousands of years.

Queen of Streets
The Appian way, supply line for German troops on the lower Garigliano, is historic in itself. Built in 312 B. C. by the censor, Appius Claudius, it was dubbed the queen of streets by ancient Romans because of the splendor of the tombs lining it.

West of Cassino on the Appian way are ruins of an amphitheatre and the Temple of Venus at Formia; at Gaeta, a cathedral treasury contains fine medieval manuscripts and liturgical relics. In the church, whose bell tower dates back to 1180, is a famous twelve-foot thirteenth century marble candlestick.

Also at Gaeta is the Church of Santa Lucia, built in the sixteenth century, its nave supported by ancient Roman columns.

SANCTUARY—The Palazzo Papale, summer residence of the Popes at Castel Gandolfo, lies near Rome between the Via Cassilina and the Appian way. Built in 1629, it is filled with irreplaceable paintings, sculpture and religious relics. It is one of the shrines along the way to Rome.

One hundred and twenty kilometers from Rome at Fondi, which legend says Hercules founded, is the old feudal castle of the princes of Fondi, where French cardinals elected the anti-pope, Clement, in 1378.

Treasures of Art
The cathedral of St. Cesario, martyr of Terracina, was built on the site of a temple of Apollo on the Piazza del Municipio in 1074. It has a fine fourteenth century bell tower, a portico containing age-old columns and a mosaic frieze of the twelfth century. Inside, the pulpit is decorated with Cosmati mosaics dating back to 1245.

Further north at Ariccia are two churches, Santa Maria dell'Assunzione and Santa Maria di Gallori, designed by the great baroque architect, Bernini, in the seventeenth century.

Just outside Rome on the Appian way is the fourth century Church of San Sebastiano, one of the seven pilgrimage churches.

Hannibal's Route
Along the Via Cassilina, an inland road second in importance only to the Appian way, are fewer ancient treasures. If Allied troops use this route, they will be traveling essentially the same road Hannibal took from Cassino to Tuscium.

About fifty-four kilometers from Rome is the Church of St. Peter at Segni, built over an ancient temple. An unfinished pieta attributed to Michelangelo is contained in the chapel of the Palazzo Colonna-Barberini at Palestrina. In the Palazzo's museum is a famous Roman mosaic, depicting scenes of the Nile valley. The second century tombs along the ancient Via Latina just outside Rome, especially that of the Pangrati with its famous stucco reliefs, are said to rival in archaeological interest those lining the Appian way.

LaSalle Upsets De LaSalle Quint To Enter Newport Tourney Finals

Explorers Win 38-31 and Will Meet Wheeling for Top Honors Tonight at 9:15

NEWPORT, R. I., March 24 (Special to The News) — A Fighting LaSalle High Explorer outfit, of Cumberland, Md., blasted DeLaSalle academy's defending champions of Newport, 38-31, here tonight to enter the finals of the Eastern States Catholic invitation basketball tournament.

The Marylanders, who will collide with Central Catholic high, of Wheeling, W. Va., tomorrow night at 9:15 for the championship, out-fought Coach Leo Connerton's favored De LaSalle cagers the last three periods after winding up the opening quarter on the short end of the score.

Ray Shaffer, aggressive and speedy LaSalle guard, and big Jim Fahey, husky center, turned in great games in sparking the Explorers while Forward Tommy Geatz, who did some good work in the first half, shone on the defense. Clay Red Ingram, although he failed to score a field goal, helped to keep the Marylanders pulling together by his steady hand of play.

De LaSalle set the pace throughout the first period except for a 2-2 deadlock. De LaSalle's Corrigan and Tommy Geatz banged in fielders and then a basket by Brennan and a foul by Hole, Newport center who was named to the All-Rhode Island quint sent the losers to the front. 6-4 At the quarter, the count was De LaSalle 7, LaSalle 6.

The Explorers took the lead for the first time after two minutes of the second stanza when Shaffer connected for a doubleheader making it 8-7. After the score had been deadlocked at eight, ten and twelve, De LaSalle went ahead on a free throw but Shaffer came back with a basket. Ingram sank a free throw and Shaffer uncorked a long one that swished into the basket as the Explorers made it 17-13. LaSalle, at the half.

Newport Pulls Up
The Explorers were never behind in the last two periods although the lead over collected five consecutive points during the first two minutes of the third period to trim LaSalle's margin to a singleton, 19-18. Tommy Geatz had opened the last-half scoring with a fielder.

Two-pointers by Eddie Gunningham and Shaffer, two fouls by Brennan, a doubleheader by Shaffer and a free throw by Ingram gave LaSalle a 26-20 edge at the end of the third round.

On an out-of-bounds play, Phil Kenney, De LaSalle's ace forward, counted a two-point shot but Gunningham, by stealing the ball in mid-court and dribbling in for a basket, Pahey's fielder, a foul by

Wood, Hines Set Tournament Pace

DURHAM, N. C., March 24 (AP) — The veterans Craig Wood and Alvin Hines tapped out four under par 67s over the short, muddy Hillsdale golf course today to lead the field at the end of the first eighteen hole round of the $5,000 Durham open tournament.

The 42-year-old Wood, last winner of the National open, put together fine hole scores of 32 and 35 and Hines, 38-year-old clubshot artist from Amsterdam, N. Y., went out in 24 and streaked home in 32 blows.

Hard on the heels of the leaders came Byron Nelson, the pre-tournament favorite, with a 68 that included five birdies.

No one else in the field of forty-one pros and thirty-five amateurs was able to better standard figures.

Skip Alexander, a Durham boy now in the army, was deadlocked at 71 with five other players, Bob Hamilton, of Evansville, Ind., and recent winner of the North and South at Pinehurst; Johnny Revolta, of Danville, Ill., winner of the Texas Open last month; Frank Strazza, of Greenwich, Conn.; Willie Goggin, of White Plains, N. Y., and Jimmy Johnston, of Farmington, Mich.

McSpaden, the leading winner of the winter swing, headed a list of six players bracketed at 72, including Ed Furgol, of Detroit, who bested the amateurs.

George McAllister, an amateur from Spartansburg, S. C., knocked a hole in one on No. 4 but wound up with an 80.

Applying To Coach
Camp Lee Travelers

CAMP LEE, Va., March 24 (AP) — Lee Applying, for fourteen years a major leaguer and last year American League batting champion with the Chicago White Sox, will guide the destinies of the Camp Lee Travelers for the 1944 season, Lt. Arthur P. Hand, camp athletics officer, has announced.

Applying, also will hold down the postmaster assignment. Camp Lee men are slated to meet the Washington Senators April 2.

Louis Rymkus, Redskins Tackle, Dons Navy Blue

CHICAGO, March 24 (AP) — Louis Rymkus, tackle for the Washington Redskins, Eastern division champions of the National Football League, reported at nearby Great Lakes naval training station today. Rymkus, former Notre Dame star, is the fourth twenty-second National League to be inducted.

Auburn's Tigers To Return to Grid Under New Coach

Carl Voyles Resigns Post at William and Mary To Accept Job

Carl Voyles Resigns Post at William and Mary To Accept Job

AUBURN, Ala., March 24 (AP) — The Auburn Tigers, longtime giant-killers of intercollegiate football, will return to the gridiron next autumn under a new coach and athletic director, Carl M. Voyles.

Succeeding Lieut. Comdr. Jack Meagher, who entered naval service at conclusion of the 1942 season, Voyles comes to Auburn from the College of William and Mary under a six-year contract. Salary terms were undisclosed.

Announcement of Voyles's resignation from William and Mary, and his appointment at Auburn, came almost simultaneously from Dr. John E. Pomfret, president of W. and M., and Dr. L. N. Duncan, president of Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Dr. Pomfret commented that W. and M. had lost "an undeniably great coach," and added: "The Auburn will long remember him as the 'miracle man' who brought the college from football doldrums to a conference championship in four years."

At least two bowl teams have gone into post-season games with Auburn as the only blemish on their schedule. Mississippi State's 1940 team, which went to the Orange bowl, was tied 7-7.

Georgia's Frankie Sinkwich and Company — headed for the Rose Bowl where they eventually defeated U. C. L. A. — were upset 27-13 by Auburn in 1942.

Prospects for 1944 are uncertain. Only Curtis Kuykendall, reserve halfback, remains from the 1942 squad. Voyles is expected to play 17-year-olds and 4-F's.

At William and Mary, Voyles's teams won twenty-nine, lost seven and tied three in four seasons.

FROSTBURG, March 24 (AP) — The Flying Five took top honors in the Frostburg City Basketball League by turning back the Diving Devils, 66-37, this week when the regular season drew to a close.

Kenny Price tallied thirty points for the winners to finish with 220 tallies for ten games.

The Flying Aces, the No. 2 outfit, trimmed the Red Devils, 54-43, in the other contest. "Dope" Hughes paced the victors with twenty points.

Ed Conwell Breaks 45-Yard Dash Mark

CLEVELAND, March 24 (AP) — Ed Conwell, national indoor dash champion from New York university, set a new world's indoor record in winning the forty-five-yard dash in 4.7 seconds in the Knights of Columbus games at the Arena tonight.

Conwell clipped one-tenth of a second from the mark set here last year by Herb Thompson, of Jersey City, now in the United States Coast Guard.

Claude (Buddy) Young, of the University of Illinois, also was clocked in 4.7 seconds in coping the second heat of the semi-finals, but finished second to Conwell in the finals. Thompson was third.

Reds May Play First Exhibition Tomorrow

LAFAYETTE, Ind., March 24 (AP) — Big Mike Navymick, one of last year's Cleveland Indians rookies who may be called on to be a pitching man, is Manager Lou Boudreau's nominee to start in the Tribe's first exhibition game Sunday — if it's played at all.

Manager Frankie Frisch, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, slated to play host to the Indians at his Munroe Ind., training camp, thinks neither the playing field nor his club will be ready.

Lefebvre To Return To Senators' Lineup

COLLEGE PARK, Md., March 24 (AP) — Wilfred Lefebvre, left-handed pitcher, who had been working in a New England defense plant, will be back in the Washington Senators' lineup this year.

Clark Griffith, club president, said today Lefebvre had wired he would report to the club promptly. The southpaw, brought from Minneapolis last year, pitched two victories for the Senators last season.

Ohio State Reaches NCAA Tourney Finals

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP) — With Don Grate pouring in seventeen points, Ohio State's Big Ten titheholders pulled away in the second half to defeat Temple, 57-47, tonight and qualify to meet Dartmouth's Eastern League champions in the finals tomorrow of the National Collegiate A. A. Eastern sectional basketball tournament at Madison Square Garden.

Dartmouth eliminated Catholic university 63-38 in the first semi-final game.

The Allegany — Mineral County Rocking Chair Basketball League's championship playoff series will get under way tomorrow afternoon on the SS. Peter and Paul school court with the teams winning the two battles tangling Sunday, April 2, for the title.

Tomorrow's first game at 2 o'clock will bring together the Shober Big Five and the Cumberland F. O. Eagles while at 3 o'clock, the Tri-Towns Merchants will oppose the Keyser (W. Va.) Independents. "Bobby" Cavanaugh will referee both contests.

Merchants Finish on Top

Thursday night, the Tri-Towns outfit clinched first place in the league's final standing by defeating the Celanese Chemists. The Shobermen, unbeaten until late in the campaign, captured the No. 2 position with twelve victories and two reverses. Keyser and the Eagles tied for third place with eight triumphs and six setbacks.

The Shobermen, who hold a pair of decisions over the Eagles, will probably line up with Joe Wagner and Eddie Diehl at the forwards.

"Bus" Miller at center and Lou Bell and Ray Swach at the guards. Paul Butts, Chet Collins and Merle Orndorff are slated to see action in substitute roles.

The Eagles will probably have Del Proudfoot and Hart at the forwards, Graydon "Swede" Dunlap at center and Stoutmyer and Holsey at the guards.

Merchants Busted Keyser Twice

The Tri-Towns crew defeated Keyser twice during the regular grind but the Independents have been clinching in recent battles and may upset the Merchants.

The Merchants will probably have Smith and Mel Henry at the forwards, Russ Minnick at center and "Huck" Miers and Morrison at the guards. Keyser's likely starters are Householder and Payne, forwards; Rice, center, and Fred "Tack" Clark and Mosser, guards.

Gee, Buc Hurler, Now Seems Ready To Pay Dividends

Big Southpaw Shows Signs of Recovering Form He Had in 1939

Big Southpaw Shows Signs of Recovering Form He Had in 1939

MUNCIE, Ind., March 24 (AP) — Pitcher Johnny Gee, the six-foot-nine-inch southpaw, picked up by the Pittsburgh Pirates four years ago for $35,000 only to wreck his arm on the first day in spring camp, now appears ready to begin paying dividends.

Gee is one of eight hurlers, half of whom are 4-F's, training with the Bucs at the Muncie camp and has shown signs of recovering the form which made him a twenty-game winner for Sprague, N. Y., in 1939. It was after that great record the Pirates completed their historic $75,000 deal, paying $10,000 apiece for four players and peeling off $35,000 for Gee.

Threw "Too Hard Too Soon"

The following spring, in San Bernardino, Calif., Gee was welcomed into camp in the morning and had lost the effectiveness of his arm by afternoon. Observers said the misery set in when he opened up by throwing curves.

"I guess I just threw hard too soon, that's all," Gee recalled today. "But now my arm feels fine. I only hope I can do the Bucs some good this year."

Manager Frankie Frisch thinks he can and will.

Gee, who was graduated from the University of Michigan in 1937 after starring in basketball and baseball, was so pessimistic about achieving his ambition as a major league pitcher that he asked for voluntary retirement in 1940. But Commissioner Landis refused to grant it.

Retired in 1942

After Gee had reported to three major league clubs and had refused to stay with two others, he finally was retired in 1942 and took a coaching job at the Adams, N. Y., high school.

It was during his work with the youngsters in basketball that his arm started coming back. Last spring he worked out with the Syracuse and Toronto clubs and upon their recommendation applied for reinstatement in baseball.

Rejoining Pittsburgh, he won four and lost four last year, dropping his last three games by one-run margins.

THE OLD MASTER AT BAT

on home runs he could, possibly, have been Ruth's rival but, more probably, he would have finished second to Ruth. But home runs were never Cobb's specialty; they were Ruth's.

The ever-recurrent question, "What would these stars of yesterday have done against the lively ball?" has produced many varied answers but it is not a matter of conjecture, it is a matter of record. I will offer one example, George Sisler.

"Sisler was a product of the so-called dead-ball era. He made his major league debut with the St. Louis Browns in 1915. He was still around when the rabbit ball became a fixture. He had three years of batting against the lively ball until his eyesight suddenly failed him. I will give you his three-year record.

AB H SB
1920 631 257 42
1921 582 216 35
1922 586 246 51

1,799 719 128

In three years of batting against the lively ball Sisler compiled a batting average of .399,666 which the statisticians would call an even 400. Not alone did he average 400 for three years, but he had a fraction over forty-two bases a season. Had he retained good sight Sisler would have created a lifetime batting average (as a result of the lively ball) that generations could shout at but, even with the terrible misfortune that practically ended his career, he still stands as the best first baseman in history."

"Each of the three players — Anson, Cobb and Lazzeri — hit five home runs in two consecutive games and Cobb was extremely unlucky that he didn't hit seven. He pulled every pitched ball that he could reach to right field in those two games and two of the drives bounced back into the playing field for two-base hits.

"As I said before, Cobb did not specialize in home-run hits but agreed with Harry Heilmann who when I asked him why he didn't try to belt the ball out of the park every time he came to bat, told me:

"There's only one specialist in hitting home runs and that's Ruth. Why try to imitate him in his particular field? I'm out to hit the ball safely and it doesn't matter whether it's a single, double, triple or home run; just so I deliver."

Sincerely yours, H. G. S.

Ruffles are young... ruffles are sprinkles! Here's a really super junior miss style pattern 9043, that's ideal for dating your beau-on-furlough, yet looks trim and smart at a desk. That cute, up-to-the-minute half-hat is included. Match or contrast it to the dress.

Pattern 9043 may be ordered in junior miss sizes 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17 and 18. Size 12 requires two and five-eighths yards thirty-nine inch fabric.

Send sixteen cents in coins for this pattern to The Cumberland News, 39 Pattern Department, 232 West Eighteenth street, New York 11, N. Y. Write plainly size, name, address, style number.

Ten cents more brings our 1944 Marian Martin spring pattern book. New, easy-to-make styles. Free pattern printed to book.

Tail Gunner Awarded $225,000; Doesn't Know

PHILADELPHIA, March 24 (AP)—Sgt. Andrew W. Porter, Jr., 19-year-old tail gunner, somewhere in England, became $225,000 richer this week, but he doesn't know about it yet.

Sgt. Porter, who was captain of his football and basketball teams at Lawrenceville (N.J.) academy when he entered the army last April 1, expected the money when he was 21. But the state supreme court ruled he is entitled to it now.

The sum is part of $3,000,000 left by Sgt. Porter's great-uncle, John A. Brown, Jr., who died in 1919.

The youth's father, Andrew W. Porter, Sr., Philadelphia investment banker, said the news will have little effect on his son. "Getting his wings and his sergeant's stripes are the kind of things that matter to him," he remarked.

The custom of English parents selling their children to the Irish for slaves was prohibited by King Canute about 1017.

The cymbal is the oldest known musical instrument made of brass and was used as early as 1047 B. C.

Richard Nierman Is Reported Killed In Action In Italy

Local Soldier Was Serving In Armored Infantry Unit

Staff Sgt. Richard L. "Brickie" Nierman, 31, holder of the Soldier's medal, was killed in action in Italy on February 19, according to the War Department by his brother, Russell V. Nierman, 811 Columbia avenue.

Details of Sgt. Nierman's death were not disclosed in the telegram, but his brother said he was serving in the armored infantry.

Sgt. Nierman, a former employee of the Times and Allegany Company and a boilermaker's apprentice at the Baltimore and Ohio railroad shops when he was inducted, entered the army July 8, 1942, and has been overseas since about the middle of October 1943.

Landed In Africa

Inducted at Fort George G. Meade, Sgt. Nierman was first sent to Camp Forrest, Tenn., and went from there to Fort Jackson, S. C. From there he was sent to the replacement center at Fort Meade and then in October 1943 was sent overseas, landing first in North Africa. He was transferred to Italy shortly before this past Christmas.

While at Fort Jackson, Sgt. Nierman was awarded the Soldier's medal for bravery beyond the call of duty. The medal, highest honor a soldier not in combat can win, was presented to Sgt. Nierman after he jumped into a river to save another soldier on the verge of being drowned. At the time, the local Sgt. was suffering from an ankle injury and was walking by means of crutches. Another soldier, also awarded the Soldier's medal for his act, then jumped into the river and helped Sgt. Nierman and the near-victim to land.

Served In Guard

Sgt. Nierman attended St. Patrick's parochial school in Cumberland, Md. He had served about seven years in Company G of the Maryland National Guard, and was well-known in the city. He was a motorcycle enthusiast.

A native of Cumberland, Sgt. Nierman was a son of the late Augustine H. Nierman and the late Mrs. Daisy Nierman Brooks. He is survived by one son, Richard L. Nierman, Jr., Portsmouth, Va.; three brothers, Russell V. John A. and Francis E. Nierman, all of Cumberland; three sisters, Mrs. Ralph Ehrbar and Mrs. James Poole, Cumberland; and Mrs. A. S. Gonder, Highland, Md.

Pvt. William E. Zapf, former B. & O. apprentice, joins Railroad Battalion

Pvt. William E. Zapf, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Zapf, 807 Shriver avenue, has been transferred from Port George G. Meade, Md., to a railroad battalion in New Orleans, La., according to word received yesterday by his parents.

"Bill," one of the youngest men in the battalion, is eighteen years old and was a machinist apprentice at the local Baltimore and Ohio shops prior to entering the service.

The Zapfs have two other boys in the service.

Cpl. Leo G. Zapf, the oldest of the trio, former machinist helper at the B. & O. shops, is with a field artillery unit stationed fifty miles from Death Valley, Cal., while George Francis Zapf has been in England since December and was recently promoted from corporal to sergeant. The latter was employed in the shipping department at the Celanese plant before he entered the service.

Music for Men In Service Is Aim Of Drive Here

Instruments Are Being Collected at Request of Army Authorities

A city-wide collection of musical instruments for servicemen at the front lines is underway in Cumberland, but response to date would indicate that local residents don't want "G-I Joe" to have any musical entertainment.

The drive here is a part of a nationwide campaign to provide the fighting men with a means of making their own music, and is directed at rounding up hundreds of saxophones, banjos and other instruments that lie forgotten in closets and attics throughout the city.

Sponsored by the army as a means of building up the morale of men in service, collection of the musical instruments is aimed at making it possible for soldiers all over the world to form orchestras in their camps or posts or to get together whenever the opportunity presents itself to have a little music.

Depositories Named

The army has asked Coca Cola bottlers all over the country to act as agents for the campaign because of the company's distribution facilities, and Roy C. Lottig, head of the local bottling works, said yesterday that anyone having musical instruments not now in use may take them to any grocery store, filling station, drug store or other place that sells bottled Coca Cola.

Trucks of the local bottling company will pick up the instruments at these establishments and then they will be shipped to the army which will in turn distribute them to the soldiers.

All instruments other than pianos, ball fiddles and phonographs are urgently needed. Lottig said, but to date very few of any type have been turned in although several instruments have been promised before the campaign ends.

Production Decreased

War production demands, Lottig said, have made it necessary to cut down on the production of musical instruments. He added that not only are instruments such as saxophones, trumpets and banjos wanted but so are smaller ones such as ocarinas, harmonicas and Jew's harps.

City's Paid Fire Department Is 38 Years Old

Anniversary Tomorrow Will Be Just Another Day for Members

Cumberland's paid fire department will observe its thirty-eighth anniversary Sunday but there will be no special celebration. It will be just another work day for the members.

Before the paid department was formed here, Cumberland was protected from fire by six volunteer fire companies and most of the equipment was antiquated when the city took over back in 1906.

Residents of Cumberland voted in 1904, a short time after the Baltimore fire to adopt a paid department. In the fall of the following year the apparatus was purchased, consisting of three horse-drawn chemical and hose wagons and one horse-drawn ladder truck. It was stored in Kelson's stable until the following year and then was put into service.

Two Stations Organized

The paid department got off its start with two stations, Central and South End, and then the following year the station on the West Side was opened. It was not until January 1, 1935, that the East Side company began operations.

Last night Reid C. Hoenicka, who has been fire chief here since 1916 and a member of the department continuously since 1910, pointed out that when the paid department went into service the volunteer companies ceased to function. He added, however, that several of the volunteer firemen went to work under the new system.

Hoenicka, who was not a volunteer fireman, joined the department in 1908, served for several months and then left his job, returning in 1910 and remaining as a member of the department ever since. He now is Cumberland's oldest fireman from point of service.

Other Equipment Received

Over the span of the thirty-eight years, modern fire-fighting equipment has taken the place of the old horse-drawn apparatus, with the exception of the ladder truck.

The ladder truck, of course, is no longer horse-drawn, having been motorized years ago, but it still holds down a spot in Central fire station. It has been several years since the truck was last used and about a year ago it seemed to be headed for the discard. Priorities for a new ladder truck were granted by the War Production Board but city officials rejected all bids and the matter was never revived.

By that grace, perhaps the old ladder truck still will be on hand when the paid department observes its thirty-eighth anniversary Sunday. It will be the ladder truck's thirty-eighth birthday too.

Estimated Tax Declarations Must Be Filed

Taxpayers Must Make Returns on Estimated Tax on 1944 Income

There's an old saying that "it never rains but it pours" and that certainly seems to be true in connection with making out income tax returns.

Most taxpayers heaved a sigh of relief when they completed their 1943 return and paid their tax but relief will be short-lived because there's another form to be filled out—and that's right soon.

So prepare yourself for some more figuring before April 15. For that's the date when at least 15,000,000 taxpayers in the United States must file declarations of their estimated 1944 tax.

Alternate Work Sheet

The Internal Revenue Bureau announced recently it already had begun mailing tax estimate forms (Form 1040ES) to all persons who filed declarations last fall. They are similar in appearance to the forms used for the 1943 declarations, last September and December. All others required to file will have to obtain their copies from the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue.

In addition to the declaration form itself, there are two alternate work sheets. One is a simplified worksheet which may be used to approximate the 1944 tax by any taxpayer whose income does not exceed $10,000. The other is a more detailed worksheet for the use of taxpayers whose income exceeds $10,000 and also for persons with smaller incomes who prefer to make a more precise calculation of their 1944 tax than can be made from the simplified worksheet.

Although approximately 50,000 persons had to file returns on March 15, the Internal Revenue Bureau calculates that at least 15,000,000 will not have paid their complete 1944 tax by normal tax deductions from payrolls. Among these also will be others whose incomes are derived from other sources than salaries.

Who Must File

The law requires, therefore, that declarations must be filed by all who expect to have during 1944—either alone or together with a wife or husband:

1. Wages subject to withholding exceeding $2,700 for a single person, or $3,500 for a married couple living together.

2. Or more than $100 income from all sources if the total of such income plus wages subject to withholding is (a) $500 or more for a single person, or (b) more than $624 for a married person, or (c) $1,200 or more for a married couple living together.

The first quarterly installment of estimated tax shown to be due on the declaration should be made at the time the declaration is filed and the remainder should be paid on or before June 15, September 15 and December 15.

Farmers, who receive more than eighty per cent of their income from farming, may, if they desire, postpone the filing of declarations until December 15. However, if they do wait until December 15, the amount of the estimated tax must be paid at that time.

3 Allegany Youth Held at Fairmont For Investigation

West Virginia Officers Declare Trio Was Using Stolen Car

Two Cumberland youths and a Marion county youth, who were held in the Marion county, W. Va., jail at Fairmont last night for investigation following their arrest near Parkersburg yesterday morning after an auto story had been told to county authorities there by Burse Carpenter, father of Harper Cecil Carpenter, 39-year-old Oldtown resident, who was fatally slugged in Cumberland on January 29.

Deputy Sheriff Andy Urban, Marion county, listed two of the youths as Alfred Kienhofer, 17, Paca street, and E. R. Sherk, LaVale. The third youth, age Urban said, resides on an unnamed street.

FBI Called into Case

Urban and Constable Sam Brown arrested the trio at 5:10 a. m. yesterday when they drove up Burse Carpenter's rural delivery box at Bunner's Ridge, W. Va. Urban said the boys had told Carpenter they would drive him to the office of the commissioner of motor vehicles for Maryland at Baltimore to make arrangements for transferring title to an automobile owned by Carpenter's late son which he wanted to purchase.

The youths arrived at Carpenter's mail box in a car stolen in January at Towson, Md., Urban said, and that the license plates on the machine had been taken from an automobile standing in a parking lot in Baltimore.

Urban declared that he "would be surprised" if further investigation disclosed the youths were involved in a car stealing ring, and said the Federal Bureau of Investigation has been called into the case. Agents are expected to arrive in Fairmont today to question the trio.

On Monday Urban said Sherk, the 15-year-old boy went to Carpenter's home, one of the youths claiming to be "the sheriff." The other boy said he had purchased two of the automobiles owned by Burse Carpenter before his death, and asked to see the title to the car.

Officers Are Notified
